The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

5,605

They will suffer the women in Montpelier this week—the legislators will.

Connie Mack can lay some of the credit to the Northern League.

"T. R." inscribed his initials deeply on Bass-wood in New Hampshire Saturday.

Vermont's grand list is booming right along, even if the population increase is a little slow.

Bourke Cochran has become a Republican, but he can't cover up a Democratic trail of great length and prominence.

A St. Albans man with a check for $21,500 has been arrested. Rumor hath it that he was trying to buy the city.

Governor Mead's service will be in great demand now for laying cornerstones of various business enterprises.

President Mellen of the Boston & Maine railroad announces that he will withdraw the railroad lobby from the legislature at Concord. This is a gift-horse which will stand a square look in the face.

The Rutland News refers to the "beautiful little creek it is" in speaking of the Otter Creek. That hits the project to change the name to Otter river for the commercial advertising the grander name will bring.

Nature stepped in and sprinkled the forest tinder just before the deer season would have opened in Vermont—but, then, Governor Mead was not in close communion with nature when he drew his proclamation and hence did not know what was coming.

Roosevelt has reached that point where he doesn't care what they say about him. That explains why the districts from certain New York publishing offices have not been followed by frenzied outbursts from himself. Apparently he has schooled himself in that greatest of all schools, self-restraint, and has received high honors therein. The provocation which the New York Sun and Harper's Weekly are continually putting before him is very great, indeed; and he does very well to restrain his anger.

Massachusetts, too, is worried about the stagnation of its population in the agricultural districts, but the Greenfield Gazette thinks that the "steady advance in institutional efficiency" and the spreading of the "comforts of living" are bound to give a considerable impetus to the population during the coming ten years. Vermont is banking on the same agencies to check the greater tendency to depopulating the rural districts, and it hopes to be able to make a far better showing than the census figures of 1910 reveal.

The remarkable rapidity with which the Crippen murder trial was conducted in the English court at London last week makes a decided contrast with the conduct of similar trials in the United States. The newspaper-reading public had just about settled down to a long siege of long-drawn-out evidence, as they are accustomed to have in their own court trials, when the case ended abruptly with a verdict of guilty. Probably the efforts of Crippen's lawyers have not been ended by any means, and there will be another trial before a higher court; but even at that the progress of the case is amazingly rapid, considering the chance for the development of evidence, a chance which would have been seized upon by the defending attorneys here and which would have been allowed by the court.

THE VICTORY OF YOUTH

A season's sport found its wind-up in Chicago yesterday, when the two leading teams of the country met for their final dash for the supremacy, and, therefore, for the supremacy of the world, as is and of course it's a Derby $2.00 to $5.00.

All other kinds of head gear—soft hats, silk hats. Fancy caps are all right as luxuries, but the Derby is to every man a necessity. Everything else for the man and boy in practical wearables or in luxurious fashions.

accorded by common consent. The contests between the Philadelphia team of the American league and the Chicago team of the National league have been followed with great eagerness, for it was a meeting between representative teams of two classes, the one the just-developing athletic machine and the other the athletic machine which, though powerful, lacked the staying qualities and the nerve force of the younger blood. As to the justice of the result there can be no question whatever; the younger, more vigorous organization came out the winner, just as it generally happens between contestants evenly matched as to skill but with different degrees of youthful vitality. The Chicago team was practically the same organization which has played together for years and years and which has grown somewhat stale in the great sport, although still powerful enough to win the championship of one of the major leagues. Opposed to it was a team of young men, who have been gradually developed in the game until they became a great fighting force, matching the older team in skill and having the advantage in stamina. Therefore, the Philadelphia of the American league won with almost ridiculous ease and are rightly the champions of the United States and by the same token the champions of the world. It was virtually a conquest of old age by youth, using the terms as applied to athletics.

WILLIAMSTOWN.

Cider making at Call's is now in full blast.

The fur trappers are getting in their best work these days.

Food-for-thought by pastor Roberts at yesterday's reunion services in the M. E. church.

The M. E. church fair, that was held in the grange hall last Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings, was a decided success, both financially and in point of interest and attendance.

We are saddened at this time to record the death of our esteemed correspondent for this column, George A. Ainsworth, which occurred yesterday afternoon. Fuller particulars, with date of burial services, etc., will appear in a later issue.

There was a good attendance at the teachers' meeting here last Friday, and the teachers will go to their work today with renewed vigor. Supt. Casey is deserving of much credit for his efforts in stimulating a broader and brighter interest in the teachers' work.

Our merchants are busy, and their increased sales over last year show that, even in good old Williamstown, there is an opportunity to still further business possibilities, by studying the needs of the public and by placing before them merchandise bought for cash and sold at the lowest living prices.

Most of the schools in town will close in two weeks for a short vacation. Many of the teachers have been engaged for the same schools, so that there will be few changes of teachers, which certainly shows wisdom on the part of the directors in keeping the same teacher in a school for several terms, provided the right one has been found for the school. There is nothing so detrimental to the efficiency and progress of a school as the frequent change of teachers.

WEBSTERVILLE.

Help wanted: Men, women and children, at the vestry of the Episcopal church, Websterville, at 7 o'clock sharp, Tuesday evening, October 25, to assist in the great work of eating up some fifty or more fine chickens.

CHELSEA.

Miss Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur F. Dewey, has gone to Barre City to remain a short time with friends. William H. Cook left Wednesday for Providence, R. I., to investigate a position which has been offered him in an electric plant.

Miss Lilla Sleeper went to South Royalton the first of the week, where she will work for a time in the family of Dr. E. J. Fish.

Veteran George M. Kinney has been appointed substitute carrier on rural mail route, No. 2, which runs out from the Chelsea office.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Patillo of Gloucester, Mass., who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Perkins, have returned to their home.

Mrs. Ellen Seales went the first of the week to Montpelier to visit her daughter, Miss Mary Seales, who has held a responsible position in that city for several years.

B. Frank Smith was in South Randolph the first of the week to visit his son, Arthur Smith, who is an enterprising and prosperous farmer of that good farming town.

Mrs. Mary Tracy, who has spent several weeks with her son, Joseph A. Tracy, who is in the employ of Williams & Carleton of Hartford, Conn., returned to her home here the first of the week.

Mark E. Eastman, who has worked during the past year for Leslie A. Bragg of South Washington, has finished his labors there and gone to Ticonderoga, N. Y., where he has secured a position as foreman of a section gang on the Delaware and Hudson railroad. His family will remain for the present at Mr. Bragg's where Mrs. Eastman is housekeeper.

Noah Taylor advertises to sell his farm, stock and all other personal property at public auction Tuesday, October 25, Charles F. Smith of Barre City, auctioneer. This farm, which is known as the Martin-Ordway farm, and located about one mile north of Chelsea village on the Washington stage road, is one of the best farms in town and is in a high state of cultivation. The personal property is all of high standard.

We are informed that C. F. Bell of Copperfield, who has recently been appointed by Mr. Westinghouse, the present owner of the Copperfield mines, agent to have charge of the property, which consists of fifty or more dwelling houses and the large company store from $35 to $600 each. This is a rare opportunity for any one within a radius of twenty miles, who is in need of buildings, to obtain them at an almost nominal figure. Most of the houses are said to be in very good condition and all of them newly shingled with the best cedar shingles within four or five years.

J. Warren Braman died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Willard A. Pepper, in the south part of Washington, Tuesday, October 11, in his ninety-fourth year. He had owned and occupied the farm where he died for the past fifty-five years and was a successful farmer of the old standard type. The funeral was held from his late home on Thursday afternoon following, the Rev. Mr. Perkins of Washington officiating, and the interment was in the family lot in the old cemetery near Washington village, the bearers being C. E. Emery, D. T. Stanley, Henry Downing and L. B. Palmer. His wife died one year ago and his last surviving son, John W. Braman, Jr., died only about five weeks since. The only surviving member of his immediate family is the daughter, Mrs. Pepper, above referred to, who has tenderly cared for him and her brother since last March.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"The Man On the Box" Good.

"The Man On the Box" pleased Barre audiences Saturday afternoon and evening. John Meenan, with a gorgeous, handsome man, was a good leading man for the many complicated situations which the man on the box found himself in, while Miss Marion Johnsonquest was a capable "Betty," the heroine of the piece.

"The White Squaw."

The romantic American drama, "The White Squaw," by Della Clarke, will be Manager Hoban's attraction at the opera house on Thursday and Friday evenings for an engagement of two days. This play is said to have valid claim upon the admiration and patronage of votaries of the stage in this country, because it is a purely American play for Americans. It is a play built upon romance, laughter and heart interest.

The author, Miss Clarke, is well known from her former stage work under Augustus Daly, and Charles Frohman. Miss Clarke assumes the principal role in "The White Squaw," and with her here will be seen an excellent cast.

The scenes are laid in the wilderness of Michigan about 100 years ago. Antoine Campeau of Montreal, his wife and their two little daughters, Leah and Octavia, were among the earlier of the hardy settlers who blazed their way through the forests that are now Detroit and its flourishing adjacent territory. Leah is dark, indicating her French ancestry on the father's side, while Octavia has the golden hair and blue eyes of her English mother. Campeau goes on a hunt one day allowing Leah to accompany him. He is slain by a wild beast and the child is rescued by an Indian Michabo, who with his wife, Ampata, rears the child to believe she is a redskin and their own. It is when Leah, now known as Neamata, has grown to womanhood that the play opens. Octavia has also arrived at woman's estate and each is unaware of the other's existence. Through the workings of fate this fair-haired sister has become the promised wife of a fur trader, Bruce Marshall, whose duties lead him to the scene where Neamata's tears stand. He meets Neamata, takes a kindly interest in her and teaches her to speak English. In return, Neamata falls in love with him. Prior to this, Neamata has been taught the French language by Jacques Cautier, a French Canadian trapper, and he has fallen in love with the girl he supposes to be an Indian. Octavia and her chaperone visit the locality, and the two sisters unknown to each other, are brought face to face. It is from this point of conditions that a dramatic chain is woven without a link missing to war its completeness, beauty and interest.
